Farmer Ty Boyd is Purple Martin Community Farm's resident farmer. With a B.S. in Horticulture from NC State and a M.S. in Forest Ecology from Purdue University, Ty brings a wealth of experience and expertise to the community. Purple Martin Community Farm is growing at the 5401 North community in Raleigh.

Farmer Boyd was raised on a farm and has many years experience growing produce in western North Carolina. "I am very proud to be your community farmer at The Purple Martin Farm" says Boyd. "I'm thrilled to be a part of such a unique farming environment that will give us an opportunity to educate children and young adults on healthy living and growing fresh produce right in their own community"

What's Growing?

Farmer Boyd grows a variety of vegetables and fruits April-November. The following produce is available in season: green beans, beets, broccoli, cabbage, collards, carrots, cucumbers, Swiss chard, eggplant, arugula, kale, romaine, leaf lettuce, melon, watermelon, sugar snap peas, radishes, okra, onions, peppers, potatoes, spinach, summer squash, zucchini, winter squash, tomatoes, and turnips.

Buying from Purple Martin Community Farm

Childcare facilities may purchase produce directly from Farmer Boyd at the Purple Martin Community Farm, and he can deliver to facilities within 2-3 miles of the garden on Mondays or Tuesdays.
